Who's in the Room? Bob Frisch, 2011-12-06 Is your company run by a team with no name At the top of every organization chart lies a myth that a Senior Management Team makes a company's critical decisions The reality is that critical decisions are typically made by the boss and a small group of confidants a team with no name outside of formal processes Meanwhile other members of the management team wonder why they weren't in the room or even consulted ahead of time The dysfunction that results from this gap between myth and reality has led to years of unproductive team building exercises The problems Frisch shows are ones of process and structure not psychology In Who's in the Room Bob Frisch provides a unique perspective to this widely misunderstood issue Flying in the face of decades of organizational psychology he argues that the solution lies not in addressing behaviors but in unseating the senior management team as the epicenter of decision making Using a broad portfolio of teams large and small permanent and temporary formal and informal great leaders match each decision to the appropriate team in a fluid flexible approach that you won't find described in management textbooks Who's in the Room is based on interviews with CEOs at organizations ranging from MasterCard to Ticketmaster to The Red Cross Understand and embrace the way decision making actually happens in their organizations Use these teams with no names to best advantage Engage the Senior Management Team in the three critical tasks for which it is ideally suited Organizations will get better decisions and superior results by unleashing the full potential of their Senior Management Teams And bosses will see a dramatic drop off in people coming into their
