Instructions: Read the following passage about the concept of Bureaucratic Organizations in Government. Then answer the questions on the information.

Bureaucratic Organizations: Structured Systems for Efficiency

Bureaucratic organizations are characterized by a hierarchical structure, clear division of labor, formal rules and procedures, and impersonal decision-making. This organizational model, often associated with government agencies and large corporations, aims to achieve efficiency, predictability, and accountability through standardization and adherence to established protocols.

In bureaucratic organizations, tasks are divided into specialized roles, with each employee responsible for a specific set of duties. Decisions are made based on established rules and procedures, rather than personal preferences or relationships. This impersonal approach is intended to ensure fairness and consistency in decision-making, as well as reduce the potential for bias or favoritism.

The hierarchical structure of bureaucratic organizations provides a clear chain of command, with authority flowing from top to bottom. This allows for efficient communication and coordination, as well as clear accountability for decisions and actions. Formal rules and procedures further enhance predictability and control, ensuring that tasks are performed consistently and according to established standards.

While bureaucratic organizations offer several advantages, such as efficiency, stability, and predictability, they also have
