

As you work your way through the poems in your anthology annotate them to make links and show your initial thoughts, using the prompts below.

1. What themes and ideas seem to recur in the poems? Make a key and underline examples that link to these ideas using a different colour for each theme.
2. Which words or semantic fields (words on an idea) link the poems? Add to your colour-coded key as above.
3. What do you think about the title of the anthology? Does it suit the poems? Rank the poems in order of most to least strongly associated with the themes from the title ideas.
4. Which language techniques can you spot? Think about metaphor, simile, imagery etc. Why might these have been used?
5. Which structural techniques can you see? Think about assonance, consonance, repetition, pauses, stanzas etc. Why might these have been used?
6. Which poetic form can you see? Think about sonnets, rhyme or free verse, couplets etc. Why might these have been used?
7. Which poems seem most interesting to you? Why? Write a brief summary of your thoughts here.
8. How do the poems link together? Make connections between poems, showing how they may be similar, different, opposite or contradictory.
9. Do you recognise the names of the poets at all? What do you know about them? Make a timeline of the poets, adding anything you know about them by their names.
