visual acuity in patients suffering from keratoconus and for arresting the progression of this frustrating disease. All these current treatment options in differing combinations aim to improve the quality of life of the patients and although successful they are causing confusion for the ophthalmologists: what procedure to do and when, how to perform, which combination of treatments to choose. Controversies in the Management of Keratoconus provides the widely used treatment options for keratoconus including collagen corneal cross linking (CXL) covering all the available techniques: intrastromal corneal ring segments (ICRS), phakic intra ocular lenses (IOLs), photorefractive keratectomy (PRK) combined or not with CXL, penetrating keratoplasty (PK) and deep anterior lamellar keratoplasty (DALK). Each treatment is addressed by more than one author with different points of view in order to present the various approaches, the logic behind them and the most relevant clinical data available. A chapter by the editor tries to put some light on how to navigate among these controversies. This book will be of interest to trainees as well as the specialized ophthalmologists.

The Meeting Professional, 2001 Learning to Lead Graham Tyrer, 2010-03-03. Students want to be trusted and challenged even when it looks like they don't. Leadership gives them a sense that they have something to offer and that their experiences can be useful and helpful to others. Even the most disruptive, difficult student is showing leadership qualities; it's just not in the right direction yet. This book contains 50 activities for building confidence and skills in students for leading themselves, others and their communities. It also includes online resources detailing a plan on 10 workshops incorporating and adapting the activities in the book to fit a mix of learning styles. Incorporating leadership learning into the curriculum in both primary and secondary schools will challenge students to take responsibility for themselves and others, build their self-esteem and improve the lives of others in the school and local community.
