Decision Making Under Stress Emerging Themes And Applications:

Decision-Making Under Stress Rhona Flin, Eduardo Salas, Michael Straub, Lynne Martin, 2017-03-02 In our high technology society there is a growing demand for a better understanding of decision making in high risk situations in order to improve selection training and operational performance Decision Making Under Stress presents a state of the art review of psychological theory in research and practice on decision making in high pressure and emergency situations It focuses on the experienced decision makers who deal with such risks principally on flight decks at civil emergencies in industrial settings and military environments The 29 chapters cover a wide range of perspectives and applications from aviation military industry and the emergency services The authors all international invited experts in their field are based in research centers and universities from Europe North America and Australia Their common interest is in the theories and methods of a new research domain called NDM naturalistic decision making This volume comprises the edited contributions to the Third International NDM conference sponsored by the US Army Research Institute and the US Naval Air Warfare Center which was held in Aberdeen Scotland in September 1996 The NDM researchers are interested in decision making in situations characterised by high risk time pressure uncertain goals ambiguous information and teamwork The extent to which the NDM approach can explain and predict human performance in such settings is a central theme discussed with many practical examples and applications This book is essential reading for applied psychologists pilots emergency commanders military officers high hazard managers safety and emergency response professionals

Decision Making in Aviation Don Harris, Wen-Chin Li, 2017-07-05 Decision making pervades every aspect of life people make hundreds of decisions every day The vast majority of these are trivial and without a right or wrong answer In some respects there is also nothing extraordinary about pilot decision making It is only the setting that is different the underlying cognitive processes are just the same However it is the context and the consequences of a poor decision which serve to differentiate aeronautical decision making Decisions on the flight deck are often made with incomplete information and while under time pressure The implications for inadequate performance is much more serious than in many other professions Poor decisions are implicated in over half of all aviation accidents This volume contains key papers published over the last 25 years providing an overview of the major paradigms by which aeronautical decision making has been investigated Furthermore decision making does not occur in isolation It is a joint function of the flight tasks knowledge equipment on the flight deck and other stressors In this volume of collected papers works from leading authors in the field consider all these aspects of aeronautical decision making

Decision Making Under Stress Rhona H. Flin, 1997 This is a state of the art review of psychological theory research and practice on decision making in high pressure and emergency situations The book focuses on the experienced decision makers who deal with such risks principally on flight decks at civil emergencies in industrial settings and military environments

Human Factors in Simulation and Training Dennis A. Vincenzi, Mustapha Mouloua, Peter Hancock, James A.

Pharmer, James C. Ferraro, 2023-08-30 Human Factors in Simulation and Training Application and Practice covers the latest applications and practical implementations of advanced technologies in the field of simulation and training. The text focuses on descriptions and discussions of current applications and the use of the latest technological advances in simulation and training. It covers topics including space adaptation syndrome and perceptual training simulation for battle ready command and control, healthcare simulation and training, human factors aspects of cybersecurity training and testing, design and development of algorithms for gesture based control of semi autonomous vehicles, and advances in the after action review process for defence training. The text is an ideal read for professionals and graduate students in the fields of ergonomics, human factors, computer engineering, aerospace engineering, occupational health and safety. Judgment and Decision Making David Hardman, 2009-02-09

Judgment and Decision Making is a refreshingly accessible text that explores the wide variety of ways people make judgments. It examines assessments of probability, frequency and causation, as well as how decisions are rendered under conditions of risk and uncertainty. Topics covered include dynamic everyday and group decision making, individual differences, and the nature of mind and brain in relation to judgment and decision making. Offering up to date theoretical coverage including perspectives from evolutionary psychology and neuroscience, this volume has everything a psychology student needs for BPS accreditation whilst drawing out the practical applications for non psychology students with plentiful examples from business, economics, sport, law and medicine. The latest addition to the BPS Textbooks in Psychology series, this thorough text provides a succinct, reader friendly account of the field of judgment and decision making.

International Aerospace Abstracts, 1999 Observing the Volcano World Carina J. Fearnley, Deanne K.

Bird, Katharine Haynes, William J. McGuire, Gill Jolly, 2018-07-13 This open access book provides a comprehensive overview of volcanic crisis research, the goal being to establish ways of successfully applying volcanology in practice and to identify areas that need to be addressed for future progress. It shows how volcano crises are managed in practice and helps to establish best practices. Consequently, the book brings together authors from all over the globe who work with volcanoes, ranging from observatory volcanologists, disaster practitioners and government officials to NGO based and government practitioners to address three key aspects of volcanic crises. First, the book explores the unique nature of volcanic hazards, which makes them a particularly challenging threat to forecast and manage due in part to their varying spatial and temporal characteristics. Second, it presents lessons learned on how to best manage volcanic events based on a number of crises that have shaped our understanding of volcanic hazards and crises management. Third, it discusses the diverse and wide ranging aspects of communication involved in crises, which merge old practices and new technologies to accommodate an increasingly challenging and globalised world. The information and insights presented here are essential to tapping established knowledge, moving towards more robust volcanic crises management and understanding how the volcanic world is perceived from a range of standpoints and contexts around the globe. Managing Crises Uriel Rosenthal, Arjen Boin, Louise Kloos
